The Gallantry Awards

Param Vir Chakra

The Param Vir Chakra is India's highest military decoration, awarded for displaying distinguished acts of valour during wartime. Param Vir Chakra translates as the "Wheel of the Ultimate Brave", and the award is granted for "most conspicuous bravery in the presence of the enemy."

Maha Vir Chakra

The Maha Vir Chakra is the second highest military decoration in India, after the Param Vir Chakra, and is awarded for acts of conspicuous gallantry in the presence of the enemy, whether on land, at sea or in the air. It replaced the British Distinguished Service Order. The medal may be awarded posthumously.

Vir Chakra

Vir Chakra is an Indian wartime military bravery award presented for acts of conspicuous gallantry in the presence of the enemy on the battlefield and is third in precedence in wartime gallantry awards and comes after the Param Vir Chakra and Maha Vir Chakra.

The Ashoka Chakra

The Ashoka Chakra is a depiction of the Dharmachakra. It is called so because it appears on a number of edicts of Ashoka, most prominent among which is the Lion Capital of Ashoka. The most visible use of the Ashoka Chakra today is at the centre of the Flag of India, where it is rendered in a navy blue colour on a white background, replacing the symbol of chakras (spinning wheel) of the pre-independence versions of the flag.

The Kirti Chakra

The Kirti Chakra is an Indian military decoration awarded for valour, courageous action or self-sacrifice away from the field of battle. It may be awarded to civilians as well as military personnel. It is the peacetime equivalent of the Maha Vir Chakra. It is second in order of precedence of peacetime gallantry awards, comes after Ashoka Chakra and before Shaurya Chakra.

Shaurya Chakra

The Shaurya Chakra is an Indian military decoration awarded for valour, courageous action or self-sacrifice while not engaged in direct action with the enemy. It is third in order of precedence of peacetime gallantry awards and comes after the Ashoka Chakra and the Kirti Chakra. It precedes the Yudh Seva Medal.

INTRODUCTION:-
 India, a country that boasts of high values, morals and traditions, is ironically faced with the problem of Corruption. It is one of the various evil practices our country is fighting with.
 The whole system of the country is based on Corruption at different levels.

THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA SHOULD SET AN EXAMPLE :-

India's government and political parties are known for their corrupt ways. Instead of indulging in corrupt practices, they should rather work on overcoming the problem of corruption. They must set an example for the citizens and inspire them to work with honesty and dedication to reach the goals rather than using corrupt means.

Strict laws should be made against corruption and needs to be more rigid.

Right to information is the best tool for fighting corruption.

EDUCATION OF POLITICAL PARTIES AND MINISTERS :-

India, anyone can stand for the elections and form a political party. The eligibility criterion does not include a person's educational qualifications. Some ministers haven't even attended school and have completely zero knowledge about the political system. Some have a past criminal record, when such people govern the country, corruption is bound to happen.

A minimum educational qualification criterion must be set. Only those candidates who meet the educational criteria and have a clean record must be allowed to contest the elections. The candidates who win the elections must then be trained to handle their duties and responsibilities. An educated and well-trained person can certainly run the country better.

There must be a set protocol for everything and the activities of the ministers must be monitored by a higher authority to see if it is being followed.

CONCLUSION :-

Though we want a corruption-free India, no one is ready to contribute to the cause. We are rather holding to it. To free our country from this evil practice, we must stand united and be honest in our endeavors.
